CIVIC ORGANIZATION.

One of the chief inspectors the other day, as reported in this paper, suggested that the Citizens' Sanitary Committee maintain its organization until it impressed upon the Government the necessity of an improved system for the disposal of sewage. Perhaps the idea of maintaining the organization perpetually, for promoting city improvement generally as well as sanitary reform, might be worthy of careful consideration. The main objection to such a thing, we should fancy, would be the known difficulty of keeping up any association for the general public benefit. One reason for this difficulty is the eagerness of officious individuals to place themselves perpetually at the head of any organization they enter, either as office-bearers or the nominators of such behind the scenes. These are natural-born or thorough-bred machine politicians, the machinations of some of whom are the cause for the appearance in every Legislature of a greater or less number of wooden men, who are as ignorant of the existing laws as they are incompetent to assist in framing new ones. These political engineers—not all of whom show up in party politics, either, but in every other organization that they take part in — always have a cut-and-dry ticket of officers and a program of business prepared in secret ready to foist upon the annual or quarterly meeting, and with a few associates that always take the front seats railroad both through before the mass of members have time to take breath. These pompous individuals will try to stare out of countenance anybody on the middle or back benches who ventures to utter a proposition that has not originated with the particular clique that has usurped charge of the proceedings. This is no fancy description of the state of affairs, but many instances could be given from recent years wherein useful social organizations, starting with great popular support, have after a few meetings dwindled so that a quorum can seldom be obtained. One such instance is in fresh recollection, where, at the second or third meeting of an association that started with practically the whole community favoring it, a proposal in one of those readymade programs was rushed to an approving vote before its intent had been explained to the meeting, a fairly well-attended one. The proposal virtually gave four or five members composing the executive full control of the funds. When it had been rushed through one of the leading citizens of Honolulu turned to the writer of these lines and asked him if he had ever known business to be so transacted in a nominally self-governing association. It is needless to say that the organization in question has lost all interest to the public, and is now dragging out a miserable existence on paper solely through the offices of its professional collector of yearly dues. Something better should come of any organization, however, originating in the present communal defensive movement. It ought to be possible to relegate both the machine politicians and the fossils, who have learned their tricks without acquiring their faculty of tenaciousness, to the back seats and allow the business all to originate and be dispatched in free, open assembly of the membership at large. At all events, such an organization might be sustained at least long enough to offer some valuable suggestions to the Government.

OBSERVATIONS.

There was no reflection intended on Brother Frank in yesterday's report of investigations of certain applications for relief. He acted to the best of his knowledge after examination into the different cases, and if he was deceived it was only what might happen in any case.

Sub-inspector Collins denies the report that Mrs. Fisher, who was taken sick yesterday, had appropriated the clothes of cholera patients taken in the same yard. He says she washed clothes at her house across the yard from the infected house, and he thought at the time her action was injudicious.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES.

Danish Will of Thirty-seven Years Age for Valuable Property in Honolulu.

The California Wine Co. has brought suit against John A. Cummins for $606.40.

George H. Robertson has filed a petition for ancillary probate of the will of Julius Alexander Anthon, executed in the City of Copenhagen, Denmark. Decedent left property in the city of Honolulu worth approximately $25,000. The will was executed on July 16, 1858, and expresses the desire that Charles Brewer, 2nd, of Honolulu, shall have charge of the property, and, in the event of his death, his successors, or Melcher & Co., or R. C. Wyllie, Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The complaint of F. M. Hatch against Allen Herbert says the respondent agreed in writing to sell to the complainant the Sans Souci property, containing 4.50 acres, for $22,500 in four installments, and that an option of 66 days was twice extended by 60 days each time.

Judge Whiting has rendered a decision in J. O. Carter, administrator of the estate of H. G. McGrew, deceased, vs. Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, awarding the amount of life policy, $5000, to plaintiff, in accordance with the opinion of the Supreme Court rendered on reserved questions of law.

A Word From Henry Smith.

Mr. Henry Smith, Inspector for District No. 4, desires to correct what he terms a wrong impression. He says: "In a former report I stated that the excavator had not got around yet to several localities. The EVENING BULLETIN says the excavator 'has not been attending to its duties.' It will probably get round in the course of time."

Death of S. D. Fuller.

S. D. Fuller, for some years secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, died recently in Canyon City, Colorado. Mr. Fuller was obliged to resign his position here on account of failing health, leaving for California shortly afterward. Not finding the climate of California beneficial he moved to Colorado three years ago and settled in Canyon City. He was a Christian gentleman of excellent qualities and was esteemed by every one.

No new cases of cholera today and no deaths.

Tenders are invited by the Board of Health for drugs and medical supplies, also for beef cattle for the leper settlement.

This afternoon's Independent will contain an explanation which is in the nature of a retraction of certain sentences objected to by the Citizen's Sanitary Committee.

W. B. Jones and A. O. K. East Kahualalii, who have been with Thurston's Kilauea Cyclorama for the past year in the States, returned by the brig Irwin this morning.

A circular letter is being prepared by the Sanitary Committee addressed to the citizens of Kona district, Oahu, asking their co-operation with the committee on Monday's cleaning-up.

Officials of the Oceanic Steamship Company in San Francisco believed the cholera would delay the departure of the Australia. There was much anxiety for news of the situation here which was allayed somewhat by the report of Capt. Hayward telegraphed from Auckland.

Captain Hayward of the Mariposa reported on arrival at Auckland, N. Z., that the cholera scare at Honolulu had passed over, and that the deaths which had been attributed to cholera were traced to poisoned food eaten at a native feast. He mentioned the release from quarantine of the immigrants by the Belgic.

—ON THE—
WERTHEIM
TRIPLE OR THREE-STITCH
Sewing Machine

This week we want to call the attention of the ladies of Honolulu and the Hawaiian Islands generally to the merits of the Wertheim Sewing Machine. This is provided with a Belgian invention by which three different stitches may be sewn according to the will of the operator. Whether the lady of the house wants a single chain stitch or a combined two-thread or embroidery stitch without in any way impairing the excellence of the machine as a lock-stitch one, is simply a matter of pressing a button, this machine does the rest. With this machine by simply pressing a button either a lock stitch, chain stitch or combined lock and chain stitch is produced as desired. In other words this one machine performs the work of three distinct ones, and not content with that can furnish in addition a beautiful darn in linen as well as woolen materials and underwear by means of its far reaching chain stitch, and the need of any special darning appliance is therefore avoided. To produce the chain stitch all that is necessary is to press down a button near the stitch regulator and move it from left to right and go right along with your sewing.

For dressmakers and those who have much making over to do, this machine is the best out. The chain-stitch is easily unraveled by undoing the last loop at the end of the seam, and although the embroidery stitch is just as firmly locked as the lock stitch and is much more elastic, yet it is easily undone. All the operator has to do is to draw out the interlaced shuttle thread and the chain stitch remains, which latter unravels easily as stated above. The machine can readily be changed from one stitch to another and back again to the ordinary lock stitch without any danger of getting out of order.

"Seeing is believing" is an old and true saying and we cordially invite all the ladies to come in and see this machine in actual operation in our store. We have a large number of these elegant machines on hand and will sell them at reasonable prices. We guarantee them to do all that we advertise.

There are any number of ladies in this city whose hearts would be made glad by one of these machines in place of the antiquated ones they are now using, and if their husbands only knew what was good for themselves they would come right down to the store in the morning and order one sent home.
